

Glimpses of Goodness and Mercy Follow South Florida Expos

The Access-Life Expo Tour began its 5th season with outreaches in West Palm Beach, FL and Pembroke Pines, FL this February and boy, did God show up in a mighty way! From the 1,810 folks who attended both venues on back to back weekends to the beautiful weather God provided each day, there were blessings everywhere we looked. Several individuals prayed to receive Christ at the “Gospel Bracelets” craft and new “My God Story” art activities putting heavenly icing on the first Expos of 2014, too.

There are always so many snap shots we see in our mind’s eye at each Expo of God working and these two days filled with His peace, love and joy were no different. These heavenly glimpses that cut through all the walkie talkie chatter, event logistics questions and thoughts of what’s next to do, show the amazing reality of God’s presence all around.

This year, I was particularly impacted by two scenes I watched unfold from a distance. I never interacted in either situation personally but was simply privileged by God to witness His handy work from a far.

The first was simply like a photographic image I can still see in my mind. After the final event set-up, our ministry briefing with volunteers and exciting cheer of the first participants entering the Expo, I began to settle down for a few hours until tear-down, loading and wrap-up began. As I stopped and looked out over the scene of people and activities, my eyes were drawn to the Gospel bracelets craft tent. There surround by people playing games, talking to one another and even eating snow cones and popcorn was a lone volunteer bent over a table holding the hands of a young child praying with them. Wow, in the midst of all of this good stuff God was doing something even greater!
